Millennium Project
– the Netherlands Node
Millennium Project – the Netherlands Node

Supports Teach the Future
Millennium Project
The Millennium Project is a global non-profit participatory think tank created to improve thinking about the future to help decision-making today. It has 57 Nodes (groups of individuals, networks, and institutions) around the world that have identified over 3,000 thought leaders and experts who participate in our global futures research focused on the Millennium issues.

The Netherlands Node
The Netherlands Node is part of the Millennium Project. They participate in research studies for the Millennium Project and on request conduct specific research studies on their own. Next to this they actively support a Millennium related project (with a 2 year timeframe per project). For 2016 and 2017 the focus will lie on education supporting the project Teach the Future.

What we can do for you
You can use our resources to answer your Millennium related questions. Propose a question to our management team and we will either:
- Provide you with materials (e.g. prior research performed by the global community) that can help you solve your problem (free of charge)
- Assign a specialized expert team, with global backing, that will investigate your issue and provide you with a tailored answer to your question (price depends on the specific problem)

Support Project: Teach the Future
In order to get the next generation to recognize the importance of sustainability and to proactively engage in changing the world we want to focus on the implementation of Teach the Future. Teaching the future encompasses teaching how to anticipate and manage uncertainty and ambiguity. Our children should master the basis of change, that is, to understand that change is unavoidable and that thinking about the future allows us to proactively create more preferable outcomes. Although it is hard to teach the future because it is not yet here, we should teach the future like we teach the past. The better prepared you are, the more you can give direction to your own future and that of the world.

Let’s create a better world together!

www.millennium-project.org

Mission: Improve thinking about the future and make that thinking available through a variety of media for feedback to accumulate wisdom about the future for better decisions today.

Vision: A global foresight network of Nodes, information, and software, building a global collective intelligence system recognized for its ability to improve prospects for humanity. A think tank on behalf of humanity, not on behalf of a government, or an issue, or an ideology, but on behalf of building a better future for all of us.

Millennium Challenges:
- Sustainable development and climate change
- Clean water
- Population and resources
- Democratization
- Global foresight and decision-making
- Global convergence of IT
- Rich - poor gap
- Health issues
- Education
- Peace and conflict
- Status of women
- Transnational organized crime
- Energy
- Science and technology
- Global ethics

For further information please contact Erica Bol at ericabol@gmail.com
How can you be involved

Experts
We are looking for experts that can help solve the proposed Millennium challenges. Experts from all fields who are willing to think about future Millennium issues are welcome. Together we create the global knowledge bank that helps Improve humanity’s prospects for building a better future.

Sponsors
We are looking for sponsors that want to support the Dutch Node of the Millennium project. We are a non-profit organisation and financial support is therefore critical in achieving our mission.

What do you get:
Give and receive ideas that help the future of humanity

- Acces to the Global Futures System (future studies on the Millennium Challenges and more)
- Acces to the Futures Research Methodology series (extensive Overview of future research methods and how to use them)
- Annual State of the Future reports (very compelling overview of humanity’s situation, potentials for the future, and actions for now)
- Be part of the Millennium Project network (nodes in 57 countries with an annual live meeting)
- Possibility to get feedback on ideas (making use of the knowledge of future-oriented people round the world)
- Opportunity to work in a dynamic expert team (experts only)
- Opportunity to place your logo on our informational materials (sponsors only)

Let’s create a better world together!

www.millennium-project.org